Directed By Dorothy Arzner (Women Artists In Film)

Synopsis

Dorothy Arzner was the exception in Hollywood film history—the one woman who succeeded as a director, in a career that spanned three decades. In Part One, Dorothy Arzner's film career—her work as a film editor to her directorial debut, to her departure from Hollywood in 1943—is documented, with particular attention to Arzner's roles as "star-maker" and "woman's director." In Part Two, Mayne analyzes a number of Arzner's films and discusses how feminist preoccupations shape them, from the women's communities central to Dance, Girl, Dance and The Wild Party to critiques of the heterosexual couple in Christopher Strong and Craig's Wife. Part Three treats Arzner's lesbianism and the role that desire between women played in her career, her life, and her films.

ever in Hollywood! Women are far from challenged in Hollywood today, compared to this intriguing story. Some of the toughest and most creative people in movies were from the Golden Era of films. And women took their places proudly, with men being some of their greatest champions.
